What kind of security gate is best for you?

Inside a manufacturing facility

For Industrial Facilities

At utility facilities, manufacturing plants, government facilities and more, folding security gates are an easy to use, high security option for protecting designated areas.

- 100% American made from recycled, galvanized steel
- Available in single, double, or pedestrian configurations
- Ideal for blocking dangerous or sensitive zones within your facility

Outside warehouse truck bays

For Warehouses

At truck bay doors, storage areas, warehouse doors, and retail transition areas, security gates provide additional points of security and safety for staff, drivers, and customers alike.

- Available in powder-coated or galvanized finishes for aesthetic appeal
- Provides additional safety around and within your commercial property
- Can be used as a transition from retail to warehouse areas internally

Single folding gates are used to secure driveways, docks, and wide pedestrian walkways. Mounted on one side, they expand and close along the opposite side.

Double folding security gates are built to secure a variety of wide entrances by expanding from both sides of the driveway or walkway and joining in the middle.

These folding gates are designed for narrow, single-person doorways and walkways. Perfect for the back entrance to restaurants and retail shops.

For Schools & Universities

Schools and Unierversities both have a number of areas that need secured especially after hours or during maintenance: Chem labs, faculty offices, locker rooms, restrooms, gyms, and more. These foldable steel gates protect your students and staff from a variety of threats. With their high-strength body and quick, easy deployment, a security gate is the perfect way to ensure safety for your school.

For Retail Centers & Storefronts

Whether it's a grocery store, liquor store, electronics shop, or any other retail business with a need for security, folding security gates are among the most popular methods for protecting a business. Easy to use, high-strength materials, and a design that still lets customers see inside the store, these gates help provide a more inviting atmosphere than traditional overhead gates while also being excellent protection for your inventory.

- Reinforced galvanized steel construction
- Can be configured to any size needed
- Protects inventory while still letting customers observe your store
